

Our Industry

has its heart in the Midlands and the North whereas total construction is more Southern-centric

We Represent

One Strong, United Voice

The Construction Products Association is the leading voice to promote and campaign for construction product manufacturers and distributors.

We are committed to raising the profile of our industry and members' businesses, helping grow the market and reducing regulatory risk. We represent our members across industry-wide organisations and alliances, whilst monitoring, supporting and lobbying government and public bodies in the UK and European Union to develop effective, evidence-based policies and solutions.

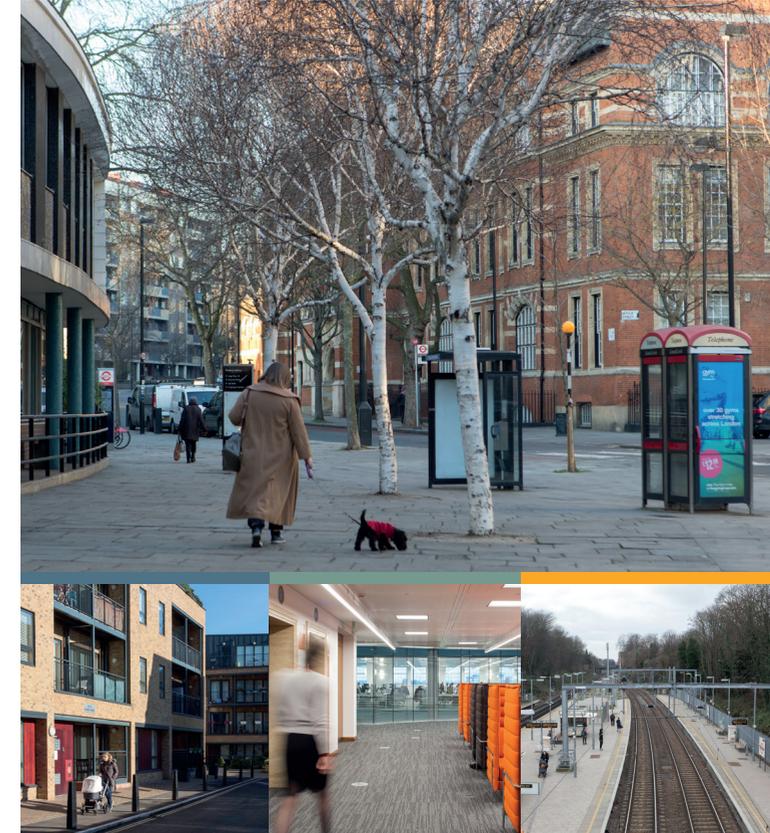

78% of all construction products used in the UK are made in the UK.

The CPA aims to provide our members with unequalled value and benefits. Whether it's tracking and assessing government policies, interpreting those policies and regulations and providing expert advice, leading work with members and the wider construction supply chain to create consensus on issues, producing authoritative economic, technical and sustainability publications, or advocating on our members' behalf in London, Brussels and the devolved regions, we seek to protect our members and support their success.

We champion our members' interests across both the manufacturing and construction industries. Because we are product-neutral, the CPA speaks for the construction products industry as a whole with one strong, united voice.

Ultimately, the CPA is about more than simply politics and regulations; it is about providing our members with the real value and insight to ensure their businesses can achieve sustainable, long-term success.

Our Vision:

To be the respected voice of construction products, ensuring our sector's contribution is valued by the entire UK construction supply chain and government.

Our Aim:

To deliver real value to our members by helping them to be more successful in the UK.

Our Service:

We offer services and expertise which help grow the market, encourage investment, improve knowledge and reduce regulatory and taxation risks.

Objective		What Success Looks Like
Recognition for the Sector	The first point of contact for government and industry seeking advice about policies affecting our sector and the wider construction supply chain.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Deeper cooperation across industry and with government to encourage innovation, improve productivity, lower costs, reduce waste, and build a highly skilled workforce. • Proper representation for the construction products sector on leadership councils, reflecting an understanding of manufacturers' and distributors' key roles in the success of the wider construction industry and ensuring that products are seen as high-value in terms of innovation and manufacturing.
Supporting Market Growth	Making the case for long-term policies which support growth, enhance productivity and attract investment.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • An enhanced National Infrastructure and Construction Pipeline to increase visibility and clarity of major private projects, which will in turn support confidence and incentivise further investment. • Embedding a 'balanced scorecard' approach to procurement which values the local economic and environmental contributions of construction product manufacturers and suppliers.
Reducing Risk	Shaping policies and providing expertise for members which reduces their regulatory risk and improves their business confidence	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A level playing field with international competitors in regard to taxation and the costs of doing business, particularly including capital investment in plant and machinery as well as the high price of energy. • Good regulations which sustain a fast changing, post-Brexit market and drive innovation, performance and whole-life value of the final asset.
